ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Disclosed is a cellular phone equipped with crime or disaster prevention means. It has an extra push button at a predetermined position on its body. The extra push button has a safety lock such as a cover for preventing inadvertent depression for telephoning police or fire stations or security companies. The cellular phone has a GPS function installed therein for informing them of the instantaneous location of the telephoner.

D0000000 14055